It may be the end of The Arrival of Spring, but the Yorkshire Wolds always beckons

In less than three weeks' time David Hockney's acclaimed exhibition The Arrival of Spring, Normandy, 2020 will draw to a close at The Royal Academy of Arts in London. All of which makes this the perfect time for anyone who admires Hockney's artwork to plan a trip to East Yorkshire - arguably one of the very best places in the world to discover the inspiration behind some of his most celebrated landscapes. <https://bit.ly/38vGHIF>

Coming to Staffordshire: "Ten Years of British Wildlife"

This year, the British Wildlife Photography Awards celebrates its 10th anniversary with a special retrospective exhibition. For the first time, the touring show will include all the overall winners along with a selection of category winners and highly commended images. The exhibition is on display at the Staffordshire National Trust property Shugborough every day from now to November 1. It is free to enter with a standard estate admission ticket. <https://bit.ly/3mvUGqb>

Say Cheese! Big win for Winslade

Hampshire cheese company, Winslade, has been named Class Winner at Melton Mowbray 2021 Artisan Cheese Awards. Winslade is named after a hamlet in central Hampshire near to the dairy where it is made alongside its better-known older sibling, Tunworth - a cheese memorably described by Raymond Blanc as "the best Camembert in the World". Several other Hampshire artisan cheesemakers also picked-up awards in the same competition. <https://bit.ly/38enZVQ>

It's Harvest Festival season in The New Forest

There is arguably no better time of year to enjoy the food and drink of the New Forest than during Harvest Season. An annual celebration of local produce, it all coincides with the Harvest Festivals, which take place during late September and October. It's also a time when the local pubs, restaurants and cafes are especially keen to include as much seasonal produce in their dishes as possible. <https://bit.ly/3zuHi9o>

Haunting Alongside Our Shadows

Derby QUAD has announced the appearance of an intriguing exhibition by Danielle Brathwaite-Shirley. Haunting Alongside Our Shadows features a series of new commissions and is the artist's first major solo show in the UK. Featuring Motion Captured animated figures, it will display a number of immersive, digital, sculptural and interactive works that will react depending on where the viewer is and what they do. It opens on September 29. <https://bit.ly/3B5okXd>

Stoke-on-Trent set to celebrate backstreets as well as backstamps

Work is now well underway to restore 11 Victorian pottery workers' houses and create a new heritage attraction alongside one of The Potteries' most popular visitor destinations. A multi-million pound project will see the properties in Harper Street, Burslem, Stoke-on-Trent - which are opposite the main entrance to the Middleport Pottery site - transformed into a new attraction, studio, and workshop space. <https://bit.ly/3zhAHip>

The Inner City Sesh

One of Hull's biggest events of the year is set to take place in Queens Gardens on September 18. Inner City Sesh, a 15,000-capacity music festival, will be brought to Queens Gardens by the organisers of Humber Street Sesh, in partnership with Hull City Council. Festival organisers are keen to make the event as environmentally friendly as possible with two solar powered music stages, recycling stations and compostable glasses at the bars. <https://bit.ly/38v2jVz>
