1666 and all that!

From 1666 to the present day, there has always been a mill in the village of Waltham, nestled between the edge of the Lincolnshire Wolds and the nearby resort of Cleethorpes. And it's once again in full working order - having recently had its sails replaced, to complete the restoration work that included a year of repairs to its rotting cap. Now, this iconic mill, which was built between 1878 and 1880, can return to milling flour again and to welcoming visitors once more - starting this Easter weekend. <https://bit.ly/4uNDuNs>

Middle Child appears in Hull

Middle Child is opening the doors to its new theatre on Humber Street this May. Isabelle, a new play by local writer Marc Graham, will be the first production to take to the stage at 69 Humber Street in Hull. Middle Child moved into their new home last summer, transforming a former salon into a theatre. Performances run from 15 to 31 May, with tickets priced £12 to £19 now available. <https://bit.ly/4uWiK6n>

Standing to attention at Burton Constable Hall

Burton Constable Hall has long been intertwined with the story of the East Riding Yeomanry, thanks to the military service of the Chichester-Constable family. And from the end of March through to May 2027 there will be a special exhibition at the Hall, showcasing the Neil Hutton Collection - the largest private collection dedicated to the East Riding Yeomanry. Entry is included with Hall admission. <https://bit.ly/4brXXjk>

Live at the Castle

Once again in summer 2026, Lincoln Castle's Norman walls will provide the backdrop for Live at Lincoln Castle, a series of world-class concerts in a venue spanning 1,000 years of history, this year featuring Paul Weller, OMD, Madness, Billy Ocean and Tom Grennan among others. Concerts take place from 13-28 June, with varying ticket prices. <https://bit.ly/4uOa95w>

'Joust' the thing this Easter

Set in 50 acres of early 19th century parkland on a dramatic clifftop position overlooking Bridlington, Sewerby Hall & Gardens has unveiled a packed Easter programme - including medieval jousting. The East Yorkshire country house estate will feature a whole host of entertainment from 28 March until 12 April, while on Easter Sunday England's number one jousting team, including the Black Knight and Sir Michael of York, will battle it out in two tournaments. Normal admission applies. <https://bit.ly/4uEoXUa>

And finally... thank you and farewell

A bit of personal news from me. Unaccustomed as I am to making the story all about me rather than my clients, the time might just have come. While not quite retiring yet, I am taking a much-needed career break from April. So, 31 March will see the end of News30, travel news roundups, website news stories and any other PR wittering that you have so graciously tolerated over the years. But before stepping away, I wanted to send heartfelt thanks to the many great people I've met and worked with over these past few decades. <https://bit.ly/41oVUqg>
